

Environment and sustainability – Quakers in the world

✖ Like many others, Quakers' understanding of environmental issues has developed over time, and continues to do so. There has always been a love of the natural world and a sense of responsibility towards its care, but resulting actions have changed radically over the years, due to increasing knowledge and opportunity.

Visit Website

Visit website <https://www.quakersintheworld.org>